Ghosts of New Street. Russia Tries Farming. 100-Story Building. And They Did Drink.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.
(Copyright, 1929, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WILL STREET is quoting Henry Clews' advice to young speculators. "Watch the old speculators," Clews ran a carefully managed brokerage office and got rich, because he knew enough to let gambling alone.

YOUNG speculators should visit the back door of the stock exchange in New street, at midnight, and talk to the ghosts of old dead speculators that whisper how they once were rich and lost everything. They might learn a good deal there, but they won't. Knowledge comes from experience.

WHILE we talk about farm relief in Washington and supply genuine relief in Wall Street, Soviet Russia makes real experiments.

Russia developing gigantic national farms, with modern machinery, plans a complete revolution in farming methods.

Twenty-five million small farms that feed Russia's population, and six-sixths of the earth's surface, have changed to big scale farms.

OUR farmers would not care for that, too much danger of being wiped out. Farmers like their own cows, barns, fields, ploughs, agricultural machinery, idle and rusting 11 months in the year.

They would not become salaried government agrarian officials, even if they made more. Russia at least is trying to do something. We are trying to walk on eggs, doing nothing, without driving farmers from the Republican party.

THE one hundred-story building has arrived. F. H. Ecker will build it, for the Metropolitan Life company, on the block adjoining the Metropolitan's 50 story tower in Madison Square, New York.

THAT is progress since the period of the Philadelphia centennial when Whitlow Reid celebrated his acquisition of the Tribune and started New York with a nine-story tower.

The 100-story tower to be used for Metropolitan Life employees only will house 30,000 of them, carrying them to the first 13 floors on moving stairways.

WASHINGTON awaits Senator Brookhart's promised revelations concerning a senatorial dinner, not dry.

A New York broker named Fahey is supposed to have tempted the senators at a private party and, according to Senator Brookhart, they did drink. Everybody knows that congressmen drink.

ALEXANDER SZTARON, a young Communist, dies in a Hungarian prison, on a hunger strike, being the second to die that fashion.

The strike ending in death is a protest against Hungary's present government. If the dead man now looks down, surveying this world that has lasted more than a thousand million years, and has another billion years to go, he probably feels that it was a mistake to take one little political situation so seriously.

However, it takes many deaths to create liberty, as it takes many chewing earthworms to create fertile soil.

IN OKLAHOMA, Jeff D. Harris, 65 years old, ardent dry, thought it his duty to enforce prohibition. He had no official position, no warrant. But he suspected Farmer Oscar Lowery of bootlegging, raided his farm and killed Lowery.

A jury convicts Harris of manslaughter.

STATE BOARD CHIEF GIVEN BURTON PLACE

Governor Appoints Former Canton Man.

13-MONTH TERM

Appointee is Now Utilities Commission Head.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 5. (INS) — Ohio's vacant chair in the United States senate was filled today when Governor Myers Y. Cooper appointed Roscoe E. McCulloch, chairman of the state utilities commission, as the successor to the late Senator Theodore E. Burton.

McCulloch is a Republican. He will serve until December 15, 1930. The newly-appointed senator is a native of Holmes county although he established his residence in Canton, at this time, he has gained political status as a result of his service in Stark county, where he also served on the board of elections and as head of the county Republican committee.

McCulloch, if he wishes to retain his seat in the senate, will have to run for election next year. Though the late Senator Burton's term does not expire until March 4, 1933, Ohio law provides that an appointee shall serve only until a successor can be elected by the people.

Four Named in One Term
McCulloch will be the fourth person to serve as senator in the one term. The late Senator Frank B. Willis was the first to occupy the seat in the upper house of congress. He dropped dead in March, 1928, after delivering a speech at Delaware, his home town.

Governor Donahue appointed Cyrus Locher, Cleveland, to Senator Willis' position. Locher died last August, and Senator Burton defeated Graham P. Hunt, Cincinnati, in the election last year.

Governor Cooper handed the commission to McCulloch in the executive's private office shortly after noon in the presence of a number of state officials and warm admirers of McCulloch.

Upon giving him the commission, the governor warmly congratulated the new U. S. senator, throwing his arm over the latter's shoulders and giving him a vigorous hug. McCulloch plainly showed his deep appreciation of his new honor.

Will Qualify Next Week.
Director of Commerce Ed Schoor, Finance Director Harry D. Silver, Congressman Grant E. Mouser, Marion, former Congressman, and Ralph D. Cole, Findlay, and others then congratulated McCulloch.

McCulloch informed newspapermen that it will probably be the first of next week before he will go to Washington, D. C., and take his seat in the U. S. senate.

McCulloch explained that there are a number of matters pending before the state utilities commission which call for adjustment before he gives up his seat on that commission.

Beetham Mentioned for Vacancy
Governor Cooper today stated that it probably will be about a week before he will be ready to announce the appointment of a successor to McCulloch on the utilities commission. This position pays $6,000 a year. McCulloch's salary as senator will be $10,000. Friends of state prohibition committee.

SCORES SALOON

Charges Secretary Refused Additional Dry Funds.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5. (INS) — An appeal to President Hoover to remove Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon while he is intoxicated. He is said to be in charge of prohibition enforcement featured an expose of liquor conditions today by Senator Brookhart (R.) of Iowa, in the senate.

He held Mellon directly responsible for any failure in prohibition enforcement. The Iowa charged that Mellon had been offered $50,000,000 for additional dry enforcement but had refused it.

The Iowa, however, asserted that prohibition conditions were greatly improved over the old saloon days.

Hit-Run Motorist Kills Urbana Man

URBANA, O., Nov. 5. (INS) — Police today are pushing a search for the hit-and-run motorist who last night ran down and fatally injured James Martin, 64, an employee of the state highway office here. Martin was a native of Galipolis.

Council Adopts Legislation For Sewers In Klondyke and Beechwood Districts

Health Board Asks Improvement in West End.

Legislation looking toward the construction of sanitary sewers in the Oakland, Klondyke, Beechwood and Park boulevard districts was adopted on three readings under suspension of the rules by city council last night.

This legislation included a resolution authorizing the city engineer to prepare plans for the construction of a sanitary sewer in Oakland and Klondyke and also notice of assessments for this sewer and for the sewer which will be extended from East End to Beechwood and Park boulevard.

The Klondyke sewer was requested by the Hall China company, which recently announced plans for a $750,000 plant, to be erected in Harvey avenue early next year. Plans for this improvement have already been prepared by the city engineer and submitted to the state board of health.

FIVE INJURED IN AUTO CRASH AT 'RED STEPS'

Four Discharged From Hospital After Treatment.

CARS DAMAGED

Ralph Betts, 20, Dixonville, Badly Cut.

Five persons were injured, none seriously, in a head-on collision between two automobiles near the "Red steps" in Pennsylvania avenue, at 6:30 o'clock this morning.

Ralph Betts, 20, Dixonville, suffered lacerations to his face, head and legs. Ralph Zellers, Wilbert Urie and D. D. Sprouse, all of Wellsville, and John McCulloch, Dixonville, were cut. All were taken to the City hospital, but, with the exception of Betts, were discharged after their injuries were dressed.

McCulloch, accompanied by Betts, was traveling west in Pennsylvania avenue, when they met Urie's car. In the latter car were Zellers, Sprouse, Earl Ward, Henry Ward and Job Johnson, all of Wellsville.

Both cars were badly damaged. Patrolman Robert Berger made an investigation of the crash.

Southern Dems Vote China Clay Tariff

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5. (INS) — Changing tactics in the tariff fight, southern Democrats today made a successful drive to support a high tariff on China clay or kaolin and overturned the Republican finance committee's recommendation to cut the duty from $2.50 to $1.50 a ton by a vote of 40 to 35. Some Progressives and a few regular Republicans joined.

An amendment by Senator Fletcher (D.) of Florida boosting the duty to $2.75 a ton was defeated.

The controversy developed into a sectional battle, with New England spokesmen opposing the high tariff on the ground that paper manufacturers cannot use the clay produced in southern states and import English clay at a higher price.

Senator George (D.) of Georgia led the appeal for the $2.50 rate contained in the present law. The vote presented the unusual spectacle of Democrats generally adopting a high tariff stand with most regular Republicans opposed.

Motorist Held After Crash

DAYTON, O., Nov. 5. (INS) — John Allman, 31, is held by police here today on a charge of driving while intoxicated. ### Hilbert Stands Pat On 6,000 Poll In Battle of Ballots

Approximately 473 Women Visit Booths in 17 Precincts During Forenoon, But Rush Is Expected by Election Officials in Mid-afternoon and Dinner Hours.

THOMPSON HILL ZONE TOPS LIST WITH TOTAL OF 110 AT LUNCH TIME

Precinct D, Fourth Ward, Voting in Fisher Store in West End, Trails With Only 42 In Tin Boxes at Hour of City-wide Check-up by Newspaper Men.

Approximately 1,725 electors, representing about 18 per cent of the 9,700 registered voters, had cast ballots in East Liverpool's 23 precincts at noon today, according to estimates based upon reports from 17 voting places.

Reports at 11:30 o'clock showed a total vote of 1,270, of which 473 were estimated to be women and 797 men. If the remaining six precincts maintained the average of 75 votes, the total ballots in the boxes at that hour would be about 1,725.

James S. Hilbert, chief deputy of the Columbiana county board of deputy state supervisors of elections, at noon reiterated his prediction last Saturday that between 6,000 and 6,500 voters would cast ballots.

Voting among women during the forenoon was exceptionally light, male votes outnumbering them almost two to one. Precinct election officials, in two places in the Second ward, however estimated that the women were in a majority during the morning.

The largest poll was in Precinct B of the Second ward, commonly known as Thompson Hill precinct, where 110 ballots were in the boxes. Precinct A of the Second ward reported 105. The smallest vote was in Precinct D of the Fourth ward, Fisher's store, West End, where but 42 ballots had been cast.

PROPOSED TAX LIMIT AMENDMENT FATE IN HANDS OF OHIO VOTERS

BY C. H. HADDOX
COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 5. (INS) — Ohioans today are deciding the fate of a proposed tax limitation amendment to the constitution of the Buckeye state.

This proposal, if adopted, will abolish the uniform rule of taxation and will authorize the state legislature to determine upon a classification of tangible and intangible property for taxation purposes.

At the polls today, throughout Ohio, municipal, village, township and school district officials are being selected. Various local issues, including proposed tax levies, bond issues, charter amendments and rate ordinances, are being disposed of.

Polis opened at 6:30 a. m. in 92 cities, 750 villages, 1,300 township and 2,400 school districts. Voting will end at 6:30 p. m.

Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown has arranged for tabulations, at his office tonight, of the returns on votes cast for and against the taxation proposal. A bare majority of the votes cast for or against it will ratify, or defeat, the proposed amendment.

Election officials predict that a relatively light vote will be cast. Means 15 Mill Limitation.

Today's election terminates a vigorous campaign waged during the past several weeks by friends and foes of the taxation proposal. The effect of the adoption of the

VIRGINIA HOLDS SPOTLIGHT AS ELECTORS BALLOT FOR GOVERNOR

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 5. (INS) — In the quietest year election in years, Virginia held the spotlight of National political interest today.

Voters in the Old Dominion are going to the polls in enormous numbers to elect a governor and a full state ticket, ending a campaign such as has not been witnessed south of the Potomac in more than half a century.

The result is expected to furnish an illuminating insight into the state of political feeling generally throughout the south—and particularly into the absorbing question of whether the anti-Smith revolt last year has been quenched, or whether it still burns brightly enough to menace Democracy's hold on the south.

Virginia supplies the first test since the memorable convulsion of 1928. State issues have been largely relegated to the background in Virginia's gubernatorial campaign, and the Smiths and anti-Smiths have gone to the mat with a fervor and feeling that has challenged the attention of both National parties. On one side there is the regular campaign.

Thrilling Story of Romance of Modern Girl

By Hazel Livingston

What Has Gone Before (an affair with Jack Beamer, married Nancy Hollenbeck, though young and beautiful, is poor. Her mother, of a socially accepted family, married a poor man. She warns Nancy against this "mistake," who falls in love with her. Nancy, becoming cynical, gives up handsome Mat Tully and begins wealth. She prepares to leave the mountain camp and rejoin her Aunt Ellie. On a hike with Roger he declares his love and Nancy admits her love for him. When Nancy misses the bus, Roger tells her they will be married at once. Aunt Ellie and Louise, at home with Mrs. Hollenbeck, wonder at Nancy's continued absence. In Reno on their ecstatically happy honeymoon, Roger pleads with Nancy to write her mother of their marriage. Together they leave Reno for his rough mountain cabin. Mrs. Hollenbeck learns of Mrs. Porter's return.

Now Go On With the Story.

Chapter XVII
To Kitty Hollenbeck's everlasting credit it must be said that she took the blow bravely. She did not even wince. With her tormentor's sharp eyes upon her she swallowed hard and then she murmured, "So Louise said. But they're so devoted to Nancy. I'm surprised she has stayed as long as she has, but of course they've been traveling all the while and that does help to pass the time.... Cora, a little more of the nut bread?" Mrs. Craig waved it away with a glittering hand. "No thank you, dear, and I must be going. I have to stop at Madame Marie's for May Belle's new dance frock. My dear, the child has a closet full of things, but she must have the new one for tonight. These girls, when they're in love! Lucky for you that Louise is so sensible. Kitty, I always say to May Belle, 'If you'd only be more like Lou Hollenbeck, not always with some boy!—once.... I must go.... and Kitty, if you feel equal to the Venetian carnival we'd love to have you, though of course it's really for the babes.... well, if you can't come, send the girls anyway. Nancy will be back, won't she?'"

"Yes indeed. She wouldn't think of missing it," mama said firmly. "And don't you dare fall us, Louise!" "I won't!" Louise promised brightly, hurrying to open the door lest Mrs. Craig change her mind about going. She was a long time coming back to the living room. What was keeping the girl? Mama waited anxiously, the strained "company smile" still on her face. To quiet her nerves she nibbled on a sandwich. She was brushing crumbs away when Louise, a little pale but otherwise quite as usual, came back.

The two women eyed each other almost hostilely. "Well, there's no use worrying," Louise began with false cheerfulness.

"Worrying! I'm not worrying. I could trust my girls anywhere," mama cried angrily. "But that Porter woman, leaving three unchaperoned girls in Reno, rushing down here to try to get into society! Why did you let her go with them? You should have had more sense. You never think of me.... nobody.... my head...." The rest was lost in tears.

Very quietly Louise got the aspirin and mama's smelling salts. Then she went into the kitchen to start dinner. Her own head was aching, but what's a headache?

Mama nagged all through dinner. "Um," papa agreed absently. And, "Tut, tut.... too bad." But you could see that he wasn't listening. Nor did he eat, though they were having codfish cakes, of which he was ordinarily so fond. "No desert for me, Lou." He refused the cornstarch pudding too. When mama paused to sip her coffee he said timidly, "I think my mother may visit us for a little while."

Kitty Hollenbeck's nostrils dilated. "Your mother? Visit us? HERE?"

"Where else?" He took a cigar out of the row he always kept in his pocket and rarely smoked himself. He was trying so hard to be nonchalant.

His wife got up, pushing back her chair violently. "Well, I'm sure I don't know why she should come here, an old lady like that, coming to total strangers! Really, Peter.... you.... I.... it's so unreasonable!"

"It isn't unreasonable," he said doggedly. "My own mother, if she isn't welcome in my house, I don't know where...."

"I was only thinking of her. She won't be happy here, away from the cows and the chickens and pigs—Mama wept openly then."

It was a relief when the doorbell rang. Louise dashed to answer it. A boy with a long box of flowers. "For Miss Nancy Hollenbeck. Sign here, please."

With a queer feeling in the pit of her stomach Louise accepted his untidy bit of pencil and signed where the grubby forefinger pointed. Flowers.... for Nancy.... "Louise—I wish you'd shut that door, there's a draft, and my head aching already...."

Louise came into the living room holding the box. A hole had been cut in one end and a forest of stems stuck out. "They're for Nancy," she said stupidly.

"Well, who could be sending...."

AUTO MAGNATE'S IDYLL ENDS

Charles S. Mott and Mrs. Dee Furay Mott agree that marriage with them has not been a success. The General Motors vice-president and his wife decline to give reasons for bringing suit against each other.

"We'll have to put them in water!" Mama's eager fingers picked at the string. "American beauties, and such quantities! I'll just look at the card...."

Instinctively Louise had reached for it—she was so used to shielding Nancy's secrets, but she was just too late. Mama had the small white envelope in her hands, was tearing it open. "Mr. John Herbert Beamer," she read, and then squinting to decipher the message. "To meet the returning traveler.... and all those American beauties! Louise! You don't think Nancy wrote to Mr. Beamer and not her own mother?"

Mama's lined little face was all puckered up. Even papa was leaning forward, his sport page pushed aside.

"Of course not! Besides, she did write, mama. You had a letter today. She'd have said...."

"She didn't say anything but scenery!" "What's that?" from papa. "I said she didn't say anything but how pretty the scenery was!"

"Then," said papa judiciously, "there was nothing else to say." "But the flowers...."

Louise put them in water. Victoriously. She jabbed each thorny stem into the bowl as if it were a pin she was sticking into Jack. Conceited fool, sending Nancy flowers! As if she'd look at him....

But that was the rub.... Nancy had looked at him. Her best comely look. She must have written to him....

Long after her parents were asleep that night, Louise lay awake. She was terribly worried. She might reassure the others but she could not reassure herself. She knew her little sister too well.

"Heavenly view!" Roger had said, sweeping a long, bronzed arm in the direction of the valley.

Nancy looked at it until the bare thought made her yawn. She swept and dusted their two little rooms until they shone, and spent one whole happy morning checking a seed catalogue, and making a long, expensive order. She was going to plant a garden, but of course she couldn't start until the seeds came.

She had even pressed and renovated the remnants of her summer finery. The biscuit colored crepe de chine, the blue robe de style and the white georgette hung on scented hangers in the rough board closet. But now that they were all ready there was no place to wear them. If only Roger weren't away all day.... if only she had someone to talk to.... something to do!

She thought of making a pie for dinner, men love apple pie. She looked all through the cupboard, but not the ghost of a cookbook. She must send for one, then she'd be able to make interesting things for dessert.

Well, she could peel the potatoes for dinner. She did, and left them in cold water to soak. Only three o'clock. Far too soon to get dinner. Oh dear!

Nancy wandered back to the living room. Restlessly she poked at the piles of old magazines. Then at Roger's books. She had read until her eyes hurt. What in the world shall I do with myself? she wondered unhappily. Roger will have to take me on his trips, that's all. I can't stay here alone all day!

Funny how she hated it when she was alone, and adored it when he was there. It wasn't the same place with Roger and without him. I suppose that's because I love him so much she thought, and the thought cheered her. She had loved, anyway. No two people in the world had ever loved as they loved, so tenderly, so flamingly.... The telephone. Their ring, three long and one short. "Oh Roger, I'm so glad you called!" she fairly sang as she took down the receiver. After a little pause a woman's voice answered.

Do you have days when you feel sluggish—when everything seems an effort—and you have no appetite? Take a candy Cascaret before you go to bed! This gentle, harmless aid to the bowels is often all that is needed to clear up a sick headache and cause any other symptom of sluggishness to vanish.

Cascarets can't harm you for cascara is a favored laxative with medical authorities. It does a perfect job of cleansing without violence and without forming the laxative habit. Cascarets are pleasant to take, for they are sweetened with pure cane sugar and flavored with real licorice—children love them.

A candy Cascaret or two will usually clear up a bilious, constipated condition between night and morning. Their action is so gentle there is no discomfort from them or danger in their frequent use. They are a pure vegetable product. They do not weaken the system. In fact, the cascara actually strengthens bowel muscles. Remember this when you have a coated tongue, bad breath, when the head feels dull or there is any sign of poor elimination.

HOSPITAL DOCTORS ADVISE QUICK WAY TO END COLDS

Many Here Use Pleasant Way
at Home to End Head Colds, Coughs, Chest Colds.

By choosing a method that not only removes congestion but helps restore the breathing passages to a strong, healthy condition, P. C. Adams—like hundreds East Liverpool people—has found the quick and surest way to get rid of a disagreeable cold.
Mr. Adams had neglected his cold, hoping each day it would "cure itself." Instead it got worse, spreading down into his chest. Then he sought advice from the clinic, where doctors gave him double doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. In a few hours he felt greatly relieved, and that night he could breathe freely through both nostrils and coughed very little. The next morning he felt like a different person—rid of the "feverish, grippy" feeling—and in another day or so, doctors report, he was completely free from the cold.

Note: See other cases being reported daily in this paper—all certified by the attending physician.

Ayer's Pectoral was hospital certified as the best of different widely used methods tested for head colds, coughs and chest colds because it gave the quickest, surest relief—with absolute safety. It is now featured by all leading druggists.

Two Welfare Campaigns

With today's balloting in the township, municipal, judicial and board of education election out of the way, East Liverpool will divert its attention to two welfare movements—the Salvation Army budget campaign and the thirteenth annual Red Cross roll call.

In order to avoid conflict with the relief drive of the Salvation Army, which was deferred from October because many of the workers are candidates in today's election, the Red Cross has announced postponement of its membership canvass until November 25, when, in a one-day solicitation, it is expected to enroll 2,500.

On November 12, the Salvation Army will launch an eight-day campaign to raise approximately $12,000 to meet its needs during 1930. This fund is sought to enable Major Joseph Hughes and his co-workers to carry on their relief activities, as well as to permit the liquidation of the debt on the West Third street citadel.

It should be unnecessary to go into details regarding the welfare work of the Salvation Army which never turns a deaf ear to a worthy cause. And its activities include distribution of food and fuel, as well as the payment of medical expenses for the needy, and other humanitarian services in behalf of the "man who may be down but is never out."

Equally important is the work of the Red Cross, which plans an extension of its activities here during the coming year in order to permit instruction in first aid and life saving. Its nursing service as well as its relief activities during floods and disasters are known to every man, woman and child.

Both the Salvation Army and the Red Cross deserve the whole-hearted support of the community.

Business Fundamentally Sound

Roger W. Babson holds that business men are unnecessarily troubled about the stock market. He contends there is no reason for holding up purchases of merchandise because the market has declined and he is right. The country is fundamentally sound. There is still a great volume of business.

"Plenty of money is available for legitimate needs," says Mr. Babson. "Employment is good and there is, every reason that business should go on as usual. Of course, a lot of money has changed hands during the last two weeks, but there is just as much money today in the country as there ever was. One person can't make a dollar in the stock market without another losing it, and one can't lose without another making it. Playing with the stock market is like playing poker with chips. There is always the same number of chips, whoever wins."

"On the other hand, the ultimate effects may be good on business because during the last few months too many business men and employees have been devoting time and thought and money to the market which they should have devoted to their legitimate business."

East Liverpool's fundamentals in business and industry are and always have been sound. Yet East Liverpool, with the rest of the country, has had much of its industrial and business mind turned toward the speculative field, with consequent diversion of plans and money. We have been erroneously taught to look upon the stock market as a business barometer. How wrong that teaching is now shown.

The amount of money that has changed hands in the stock market does not destroy a dollar. It does not stop the need for pottery products or other commodities, and those wise in management are looking forward to what the future holds for them. If there has been cancellation of orders, if there is a tendency to await market developments, that is especially unfortunate. The factory or individual that slows up will be at the disadvantage of the competitor who steps energetically ahead.

Turning the Tables

A short time ago, Georges Clemenceau, the Tiger of France, lay in his bed. Physicians hovered over him awaiting the arrival of death, which they believed to be unavoidable. They had done everything in their power and had availed nothing toward faling the aged leader.

But the Tiger was far from dead. A week later he was out at seven in the morning and busily engaged upon the volume of memoirs which has been his chief occupation during the last few months. The physicians were very much in the background. The catastrophe which they believed to be certain had been averted, almost magically it seemed. Clemenceau, amused at their perturbation, expressed only one regret. That was that he was unable to be in the chamber of deputies to take Briand's part when the vote of confidence was taken recently. Had he been there, the chances are that Briand would still be premier of France.

One of the doctors whose reputation has been endangered by his unfulfilled prophecy was sport enough to cite the old statesman's accusation that "all doctors are donkeys" as proof of his patient's lucidity. But Clemenceau, realizing the whimsicalities of a bulky heart, will no doubt keep his doctors quartered very close to his bedside—close enough at least to be speedily available in case of an emergency.

In the treatment of their world-famous patient, the doctors failed to consider one thing—an indomitable will to live. Clemenceau's tenacious grasp on life may be strong enough to permit him to finish his memoirs and he may even contravert all medical tradition and live for years. But, at that, there is a strong suspicion that he realizes the service maligned "medical donkeys" has rendered him.

HASKIN LETTER DAILY

By Frederic J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 5.—If the amalgamation of banking institutions which is concentrating a larger and larger amount of money in a steadily decreasing number of banks, were limited to the United States the significance of the movement might be discounted somewhat, might indeed be regarded as a purely American innovation. But the same sort of thing is going on in the principal commercial countries of the world. Right now there is a greater concentration of control of vast financial resources than ever before in modern history.

The very latest foreign development comes from Germany. The famous Deutsche Bank which for many years has wielded a deep influence on commercial finance in central Europe has absorbed the Disconto Gesellschaft, a bank of lesser but still great magnitude and importance. The fusion of the two German banks has produced by far the largest bank in all Germany and one of the largest in the world. The bank amalgamation movement has been taking place in a large way ever since the war. Many banks were thrown into difficulties through currency depreciations, heavy taxes, wiping out of great assets, and the general destruction which accompanied the struggle. Foreign exchange fluctuations embarrassed others. The largest banks in such countries as Germany were by no means immune from difficulties themselves but so much was dependent upon their continued operation that governments came to their assistance. Even the great Deutsche bank borrowed millions in the American money market in order to keep in business.

The amalgamated Deutsche bank and the Disconto Gesellschaft have a capital of 250,000,000 marks and a reserve of 150,000,000 marks. But what of supreme importance is that the new bank holds deposits of 4,000,000,000 marks which is 40 per cent of all the bank deposits in Germany. In no important country has any bank a comparable position. It is as though a single bank in the United States held $40 out of every $100 of deposits of the American people, leaving only $60 to be divided among all the other thousands of banks.

In capital the nearest rival to the New German bank in Germany is the Dresdner bank which has a capital of 100,000,000 marks or only a little more than one-third as much.

Germany's bank amalgamation has been going on since the war at a rate which resulted in a Big Four achieving the dominant banking position. In France the amalgamation movement has proceeded more slowly but nevertheless there has been such a movement. The important Credit Lyonnais and the Bank of Paris, both great institutions, have absorbed lesser banks in the years since the war and the movement still continues.

From Greece also comes news of a very important bank merger. Three institutions, each occupying a commanding position, have joined. They are the Banque d'Industrie, the Credit Commercial Hellénique, and the Banque de Laonice, all with head offices at Athens.

Only a short time ago a similar amalgamation took place in Hungary producing an institution which dominates the local financial situation.

Amalgamation has been proceeding steadily in Canada along similar lines and a big three controls financial matters there.

The Bank of England is not a state-controlled bank although, as to some matters, an official fiscal agent. It works in close cooperation with the government and is generally regarded as semi-official and yet, with all this advantage, it has never reached such proportions as to approach the Big Five of London. The Bank of France is in a somewhat similar position. The German Deutsche bank, and the Bank of Japan, almost wholly official, is not nearly the size of the Big Five of Japan.

Q. What is the average age of air pilots? G. M. A. Most air pilots are between 25 and 35 years of age.

Q. At what distance from a bell tower are carillons heard best? A. G. L.

A. Usually a carillon can be heard at best advantage one or two thousand feet from the tower. The bells can be heard at considerable distance, depending upon the wind, height of tower, and possible obstructions. Often, tunes can be distinguished at a distance of three miles.

Q. What is lagnappe? L. M. C.

A. The word is defined as a trifle present given to a customer. The expression is common in Louisiana.

Q. How many people over sixty years of age are without incomes? C. F. W.

A. There are 78,000 absolute paupers listed in the United States and a recent statement was made unofficially that approximately 60 per cent of persons over sixty years of age were dependent either upon relatives or upon a pension received from an industrial source.

Q. Please explain the appointment of "Kentucky Colonels." What uniform is required? Is one entitled to wear United States Army insignia? R. P. S.

A. The Secretary to the Governor of Kentucky says that the appointment of a Kentucky Colonel is an appointment made by the Governor at his pleasure. It is purely honorary and does not carry with it any duties. For years it has been the custom of the various governors of Kentucky to honor their friends with the title of Colonel. There are no uniform or dress requirements affecting such appointees. Certainly such an appointment does not give the right to wear an insignia of the United States Army.

Q. Where is the largest herd of cattle in the country? J. C.

A. The King Ranch in Texas has the largest herd of cattle in this country. This herd numbers about 100,000.

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention is Worth a Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

Our present high standard of living, so different from that of our grandfathers, is always an interesting study. For our food we are no longer limited to the neighborhood; the sources from which we draw our raw materials are increasing every year.

In our grandmothers' time the supply of foodstuffs depended entirely on the weather and season. It is not so today. We are able to eat peaches, pears, plums, melons, broilers and all the other delicacies at any time during the entire year.

In olden times even manufacturers of certain foodstuffs were able to operate their plants only when atmospheric conditions were suitable. They were helpless so far as orchard and garden were concerned. Hothouses, refrigerators and air-cooled containers now insure almost uniform growth and delivery of food.

Through the marvelous inventions of the engineers of the country, it has been found possible to create any type of atmosphere necessary for successful production. For those enterprises needing moisture or those requiring extreme dryness science has the solution. They "manufacture" the air to order.

I am interested in these inventions, not only because of the improved food supply they give, but also because of their effect upon those who work in these great centers of industry. Those who work under conditions made ideal by invention are bound to be healthier, happier persons than those working under less favorable surroundings. Most large industrial establishments now have what are known as "air conditioning" machines. In Summer these machines cool the air and take out the moisture. In Winter they properly warm it.

This is true of the theaters, too. The modern theater has its cooling system, which adds much to the pleasure of its patrons on a hot day. There are still many industries in which the worker is subject to industrial hazards. With the advance of science these are gradually being overcome. Let us hope for continued work in manufacturing the right kind of weather to meet the highest needs of the human race.

With the jacket, of course, it is a formal afternoon frock, and without it, it becomes an evening dress.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The Dangerous Age for settled spouses in New York this season seems to be the fifties. Three illustrious husbands in the past six months—aged 52, 51, and 57 respectively—deserted the fondly glow of the family fire for the fierce glare of Broadway.

All were men whose lives, in business and socially, were without blemish. They had reared children of whom they were deservedly proud. Not a whisper of gossip was ever heard. Yet almost over night in each case the domestic dimming ended flared up into dangerous scandal.

One was a famous financier who after disposing of his interests preparatory to settling in a chateau in France met a rich lipped and sweet spoken cutie with half length stockings. They "went Broadway" and are seen nightly in the cafes and jazz parlors swathed in a beautiful content.

Another was an importer whose wife came up with him to affluence from small shop keeping drudgery on the lower East Side. They were singularly devoted and had grand children. But on a week end trip to Atlantic City he ran afoul of one of those coyly flirtatious ladies on the boardwalk.

In two weeks he had established her in a Park avenue apartment and surrounded her with a luxury that made the section buzz. He is the victim of the wiles of a cliffion lady who has long been notorious for gold digging and apparently he loves it.

The third victim, a surgeon, took his wife to Europe this summer and at sea fell with a thousand to a actress on her way to England to fill an engagement. Upon landing he induced his wife to continue her European tour while he and the charmer took the next boat for America.

They are now conspicuous in glided haunts that never saw him before. Doddering dodges go his blab in this fashion and desert carpet slippers for dancing pumps are the wildest Broadway spenders. They have their fling and don't care who knows it.

The Chinese Puzzle.

The confusion that is in China is rendered worse confounded by happenings just reported, with unmistakable signs of accuracy. Fighting is in progress in Hunan province, which lies between Peking, the ancient capital, and Nanking, the new capital. Nationalist government forces have been engaged in at first desperate and then discreet combat with the Kuomintang army, supposedly commanded by Marshal Feng Yu-Hsiang, the "Christian general," their discretion being manifested in a withdrawal when the Kuomintang troops were heavily reinforced. But it is not the actual outbreak of hostilities between the Nanking and the Feng forces that causes the mix-up further confusing the situation. For a well-credited report states that General Yen Hsi-Shan, the "model" governor of Shanxi and Chihli provinces, has "arrested" Marshal Feng, his erstwhile friend and ally.

This would on its face appear to clarify instead of complicate the situation in China, for if Yen has actually cast his influence and his forces into the balance with the Nationalist government the same would, for the present at least, be won by Chiang Kai-Shek, the president at Nanking. But the genuine news of this "arrest" is gravely doubted. Feng has been Yen's guest for some time past. They were closely allied in the spring, when Feng went on the warpath. When Feng announced, after the suspension of hostilities, that he was going abroad—which merely meant that he was to make a recuperative trip to Japan—Yen declared that under the terms of an agreement he had with Feng he would also have to leave the country. Thereupon President Chiang Kai-Shek hastened from Nanking to Peking to persuade Yen to remain in China. There were some very complicated maneuvers at the old capital. Yen avoided a meeting with Chiang Kai-Shek for some time, finally going to a hospital on a plea of illness. At last the president got to the governor and certain persuasive arguments were employed and Yen agreed to stay at home. This complicated Feng's plans and he too consented to stay in China. Chiang Kai-Shek was accredited with a victory. Just at that time the troubles with Russia became acute and war in Manchuria was threatened, drawing attention away from Feng and Yen.

Just what has happened since July, when Yen consented to remain in China and Feng abandoned his purpose to go abroad, is not clear. If Yen has now decided that Feng is a losing partner his move in "arresting" his former associate is perhaps a genuine evidence of fealty to Chiang Kai-Shek. But there comes the rub. Who can tell whether this is a sincere sign of Nationalist allegiance on the part of Yen or a camouflage to hide a combination of Feng-Yen forces? It is known that Yen is ambitious to be the balance of power in China, just as it is known that Feng is ambitious to be the head of the national government.

In this connection keen interest attaches to a statement made at Mukden by Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, the military governor of the "three eastern provinces," son of the late Chang Tso-Lin, replying to the manifesto of the Kuomintang generals to the effect that if their charges against the Nanking government are substantiated sweeping changes must be made. This simply means that the young marshal, who is in effect ruler of Manchuria, is ready to throw his influence and perhaps his forces

ANNE LAURIE'S TIMELY ADVICE

DEAR ANNE LAURIE:

I am 14 years old, am five feet four and a half inches tall, I weigh 147 1/2 pounds. Can you give me a diet that will help me to reduce?

What should I do or say when being introduced to a girl? To a boy? If I am sitting down should I rise? What should I say when I introduce a girl to a girl? A girl to a boy? Should I say her name first?

What course should I take up when I go to high school?

VERA: You weigh far too much for your age. Plenty of fruit and vegetables, no pastry or candy. Plenty of healthy and vigorous exercise will soon reduce your weight. You should rise to acknowledge the introduction when meeting people obviously older than yourself. It denotes good breeding. High school offers many interesting courses, and I am sure that you will choose a subject that appeals to you. There are so many careers open to young women these fortunate days. Red cheeks and lips should come from within, and they will if you lead a bright, active life.

DEAR ANNE LAURIE:

I am a girl of 18. I went out with a boy for almost a year. I liked this boy very much, but my mother disliked him. He stopped going with me, and went out with another girl for almost a year. While he was going with this girl they kept quarreling all the time. I like him very much and would like to go out with him, but I don't know how to do it, so please give me some advice.

My mother told me she would come to the house. He'd ask me for dates, but I'd always refuse him unless he'd apologize for something he had said to me. So please tell me what to do.

E. L.: Explain to your friend why your mother disapproves of him. If he values your friendship he will apologize for any wrong remark he might have made about you. If your mother then permits it, why not invite him to your home for supper some evening. After that everything should adjust itself nicely.

DEAR ANNE LAURIE:

I am a girl 16 years of age and will be 17 in one more month. Do

When Pain Comes

Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.
"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

The Theaters

Story of Campus Scores At Ceramic

"The College Coquette" is the title of the highly entertaining, all-talking Columbia production which opened at the Ceramic theater last night for a three-day run. It was a relief to find a picture about college life that did not give an exaggerated idea of what goes on at the American seats of learning. Director Archibald caught the right atmosphere.

The title role is capably handled by Ruth Taylor, who leads the boys in a merry chase and makes all the girls at Dexter college envious. Even her room-mate, portrayed by Jobyna Ralston, doubts the sincerity of her chum and believes her to be the cause of her shattered romance. This belief indirectly results in a tragedy.

William Collier, Jr., delineates the carefree youth who breaks the heart of the innocent girl. An excellent bit of acting is done by John Holland in the role of a football coach. His love for the coquette rises above gossip and outward appearances of unfaithfulness. He believes in the girl and finds that his faith is not misplaced. Other members of the cast who portray their various roles with skill are Adda Gleason, Gretchen Hartman, Frances Lyons, Edward Piel, Jr., Edward Clayton, Morris Murphy and Milly Tatt.

Gloria Swanson In Talkie Triumph

One wonders—after seeing and hearing Gloria Swanson in "The Trespasser," at its local premiere at the American theater yesterday—whether the producer-star hasn't introduced, in her first all-dialogue United Artists picture, a new era in audible films.

Popular interest of course focuses on the fact that Miss Swanson talks—and sings—from the screen for the first time. Miss Swanson's voice is a delight to the ear. Had she never entered pictures, her stage voice would have guaranteed stardom in the legitimate theater. Here is a soprano that is clarion-sweet. She demonstrates a wide vocal range in the two numbers she sings. One is "Serenade," a quasi-classic, familiar to all music-lovers. The second piece is "Love," composed especially for Miss Swanson by Edmund Goulding, who wrote and directed the feature.

In the new technique manifested in "The Trespasser," one sees the hand of Edmund Goulding at work. There is suspense crowding suspense, with the plot always taking a turn contrary to that expected. The theme concerns a successful girl of the business world and her marriage to the son of a Chicago millionaire. It is not until the hero, Robert Ames, has married again, that he discovers he is the father of the heroine's son. What happens when the inviolate second wife insists that the heroine take her husband and go away with him; when the heroine refuses to do so, and eventually sacrifices her boy to the care of his grandfather, all provides an emotional crescendo that finds a happy solution in the last lines of the dialogue.

"Woolworth Girl" Winner At State

Dialogue. A whiff of fresh plot ideas. Pulchritude with a pull. Good music, good singing, clever lines. That describes "The Girl From Woolworth's," which is heading a good bill at the State theater.

But it doesn't halfway describe the genuine enjoyment you're going to get from this First National and Vitaphone offering, because we haven't mentioned Alice White, the dynamic little star of the piece, and the rest of a really great cast.

There's a magic about Alice White and lively and brave, and packed with sex appeal, she steps in where the film's peerless beauties fear to tread and dances circles around them in winning her heart. She did it in "Show Girl" and "Broadway Babies," both talkies. But you haven't seen her at her best until you see her in "The Girl From Woolworth's."

Charles Delaney, that engaging young Irish ace of the World war and stunt filler of the movies, who played opposite Miss White in "Broadway Babies," is again her leading man. Wheeler Oakman, Ben Hall, Gladden James, Bert Moorehouse, Rita Flynn, Patricia Caron, William Orlamond and Milla Davenport appear in support.

Still it seems that there is something more that should be said about "The Girl From Woolworth's" as a charming, heart-touching little love story. The five-and-ten atmosphere, the big town background, the sophistication of the night club—any yet it's human. That's it. Human and direct and simple, so that it almost seems old fashioned. Why, you can tell the story in one short sentence:

The love of a boy and a girl for each other in the wrong sort of Eden proves strong enough to make the Eden the right sort of Garden after all.

GAS TAX NETS BIG REVENUE

ALBANY, N. Y. — New York state's levy of two cents a gallon on gasoline averaged about $5,000,000 a month during the summer. The state expects to collect about $30,000,000 from the two cent levy for the year.

Good-Morning Biscuits

baked in a jiffy

Just try this time-saving scheme and we'll wager your family will have hot biscuits for breakfast often.

Whenever you make biscuits for the evening meal, mix up enough extra dough for the following morning. Have your biscuits all cut out, put them in the pan and keep them overnight where it's cold. All you have to do the next morning is to heat your oven and bake them.

Try this tested recipe for biscuits given below. Made with Crisco they are light, tender, fluffy and snowy-white. And, of course, their flavor is sweet. How could it be otherwise when the flavor of Crisco itself is so sweet and fresh?

2 cups bread flour 1/4 cup milk or water (for "drop" biscuits) 2 teaspoons baking powder 1/2 cup milk or water (for "rolled" biscuits) 1/2 teaspoon salt 4 tablespoons Crisco

Mix dry ingredients together 3 times. Work Crisco in with fork. Add liquid gradually.

Form dough into shape, roll 1/4 inch thick, cut. For scones, cut into squares, then diagonally in half. Brush top of biscuits with melted Crisco or milk. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 15 to 20 minutes. Makes about 12 biscuits.

Taste Crisco

Then you'll understand why its own sweet, fresh flavor so improves the taste of your cakes, pies, hot breads, cookies and fried foods.

Crisco is a great time-saver. Easy to cream, easy to mix—winter or summer.

Crisco is the registered trademark of a shortening manufactured by The Procter & Gamble Co.

Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up a stubborn, lingering cough. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that follow severe cold epidemics.

From any drugist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the gummy phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of distressing coughs, chest colds, and bronchitis.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

The Home of the $5 Permanent "Where Beauty Pays"

Beauty as someone has so aptly put it, is the new business tool. No firm in it's right mind would try to offer to the public of today an article on its efficiency appeal alone. From bathroom fixtures to the new motor car, from sash curtain rods to tooth brushes, from the perfume bottle to cigarettes the buying public must be caught by eye appeal. And what may I ask you is the method used? The pretty girl. There is the answer. Your beauty is a financial asset as well as a physical attraction. Do not let age show its lines. Call us for an early appointment and let us give you one of our now famous facials, a youthful gloss in your hair, and last but not least, a wonderful curl to enhance the beauty of your new ensemble.

CONVICT SHOT IN STATE PENITENTIARY BREAK DIES

"MILK BOTTLE" SLAYER'S PALS ELUDE POSSE

Guy Tennent and Will Miller at Large.

REWARD POSTED

Guard Montgomery Recovering From Mauling.

William Miller, 28, formerly of East Liverpool, who was acquitted of the slaying of his brother, "Alabama Joe" Miller, "king of the state line bootleggers," about five years ago, was one of the two convicts who drilled their way to freedom from the Ohio state penitentiary at Columbus, yesterday. Chief of Police Hugh McDermott was advised today.

Believing that Miller may be headed toward East Liverpool or Midland where he is said to have friends, penitentiary officials have asked police to be on the lookout for him.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 5.—(INS)—A convict is dead here today and two others are still at large, as the result of the partly successful morning delivery at the Ohio state penitentiary here yesterday.

Arthur Brooker, 23, of Findlay, who was sentenced to a life term in the penitentiary for beating Samuel McMichael, Findlay storekeeper, to death with milk bottles, is the dead prisoner.

His death resulted from gunshot wounds he received when he and two other convicts drilled, slugged and shot their way from the state prison. Brooker was fatally wounded as he and a guard struggled in the glare of huge searchlights on the "catwalk" on top of the penitentiary walls.

Guard Badly Beaten. His two companions escaped and police are continuing their search for the fugitives today. The usual reward of $50 for each man captured has been posted. Those at large are Guy Tennent, Cuyahoga county, and Will Miller, 20, Lawrence county. Both were serving 10-to-25 year terms for robbery.

Meanwhile, Guard J. R. Montgomery is recovering at his home from the effects of the mauling he received at the hands of the desperate convicts. He was beaten into insensibility by the trio as he attempted to prevent their escape.

Brooker Found Wounded. Brooker succeeded in getting over the 30-foot wall, but he was found mortally wounded on a railroad right-of-way within 100 yards of the penitentiary, hours after his reported escape.

Police rushed to the Ohio State university campus when it was reported that the convicts were seen there yesterday afternoon. The "tip" proved unfounded, however.

Bitter Mayoralty Battle In Canton

CANTON, O., Nov. 5.—(INS)—Of the dozen or more cities in the state where candidates are at daggers points in today's election, Canton held the limelight today.

Emerging from an election campaign in which vicious attacks have been hurled for and against, voters went to the polls today to decide one of the bitterest mayoralty battles in the history of the city—a fight which strongly echoes of the vice crusade of Don R. Mellett.

Mayor C. C. Curtis, backed by a strong party organization, is out for re-election. He is opposed by Herman Witter, Democrat, ex-mayor of Canton, and state director of industrial relations in the cabinet of former Governor Vic Donahey in 1924 ousted from office as mayor on charges of malfeasance in office.

BOY WHO DIDN'T LIKE SCHOOL QUILTS JAIL WHEN FATHER WEDS

NEW LEXINGTON, O., Nov. 5.—(INS)—Eleven-year-old Genne Gower didn't like school and he didn't like to live in the county home where he was a ward. That was three months ago.

Genne was a constant worry to the home officials. He repeatedly tried to escape and punishment just made him more desperate. He wouldn't go to school and when he was forced into the class rooms he remained sullen and refused to pay attention.

Finally, county officials hit on a novel solution, a solution which has no parallel in the history of this county.

Genne and the school officials signed a peace treaty. Genne agreed to attend school.

The officials agreed to allow Genne to live in the county jail. And the boy kept his word. He went to school regularly but during the hours he was not in class, he lived at the county jail just like the other prisoners.

That came to an end today, however. Genne's father at Middletown was remarried and has sent for the boy to come to his new home.

Cleveland "Girl," Proves to Be Boy

CLEVELAND, Nov. 5.—(INS)—"What do you do about Angelina?" is the question over which board of education officials and juvenile authorities here are mulling, following astonishing disclosures today that Angelina Buzzelli, 16-year-old "schoolgirl" is a boy.

From birth Angelina has lived as a girl. "She" has learned to perform all the household activities with meticulous care until now the father boasts, "she" is on a par with her stepmother.

by other owners of real estate will be boosted as a result of "an unchecked amount" of bond issues and extra tax levies, in view of the provision that the 15-mill limitation could then be exceeded by a vote of the people.

Today is the fifth time that a proposed classification taxation amendment to the state constitution has been submitted at the Ohio polls. Today, however, is the first time that such a proposal has been the sole state-wide issue at an Ohio election.

A classification proposal was adopted by a majority of 22,000 in 1918, but the Ohio supreme court declared it unconstitutional because it conflicted with another amendment which received a larger majority. The same proposal was defeated in 1919 by 78,000 votes; by 250,000 votes in 1922 and by 60,000 votes in 1925.

Tickets today provide for the election of local officials, including city councilmen, auditors, law directors or city attorneys, municipal judges and school board members.

REV. E. P. WISE IN BAPTIST CHURCH PULPIT

Canton Pastor is Revival Service Speaker.

CROWD ATTENDS

D. L. Moody and Claude Kelly Preach Tonight.

"The outstanding thing about Christianity is that it has a Saviour, who can be and is a friend and a companion," asserted the Rev. Dr. E. P. Wise, of Canton, former pastor of the First Church of Christ here, at the First Baptist church revival, West Fifth street, last night. "Are you cultivating Him, having fellowship with Him, walking with Him?" he interrogated.

Here over Sunday, the Rev. Dr. Wise was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Aloy, of Oak street. He lectured on "Palestine" at the First Christian church in Chester, W. Va., Sunday night.

The song service at the Baptist revival last night was in charge of D. L. Moody and Claude Kelly, both of Columbus.

Announcement was made by the Rev. A. H. O'Brien that he and Moody and Kelly would motor to Mansfield today, where they will attend a state meeting of Baptist pastors. They will return here to be present at tonight's service which is scheduled to begin at 7:30 o'clock.

That he may cast his ballot in the city election, the Rev. Dr. Wise returned to Canton this morning. He said that he would return to East Liverpool at a later date to deliver his lecture at the Baptist church.

Many Testify on Conversion. Another large crowd attended the revival last night which made necessary the overflowing of the audience into the Sunday school room adjoining the main auditorium.

A feature was a testimonial service, which Mr. Moody directed, in which many declared the place of their conversion.

Six states and the Dominion of Canada were noted as the places in which the persons reporting then lived.

The majority of the conversions were declared to have occurred during a revival service.

"My conversion occurred as I was washing dishes at my home despite the fact that I had been long years a member of a church," declared one woman. It resulted from words spoken by Dr. W. E. Biedewolf, the evangelist, during his tabernacle meeting in East Liverpool.

Another woman averred that though she, too, had been previously a member of a church her conversion occurred one day as she was walking along Sixth street.

Solos, duets and numbers on the vibraphone were in turn sung and given by Moody and Kelly. They took turns in directing the congregational singing.

Two persons came forward during the invitation period.

"On Zion's Hill" was an appealing vibraphone number given by both Moody and Kelly. The former also sang "Yielded to Me" and the latter "His Eternal Love." The congregation was taught a new song, accompanied by the vibraphone, "Jesus Never Fails."

Moody sang also "The Day Without a Cloud." "May we get back to thinking the thoughts of God that were ours as children," supplied the Rev. Mr. O'Brien during prayer at the service. He announced that he would continue his series of sermons upon the Book of Acts tonight and that on Friday night he would discuss what the acts declared regarding the second appearance in the world of the Christ.

Have You An Acid Stomach?

When gas, pain and distress follow a good meal, it is an almost sure sign of "too much acid" in your stomach. Get rid of it now for it is dangerous. No matter how much acid is in your stomach, you can enjoy and relish your next meal without fear of after effects, if you have some Bisurated Magnesia handy to prevent the trouble before it starts. Try it. Eat whatever you like, in reason, and then take a little Bisurated Magnesia to neutralize the acid, sweeten your stomach and protect the stomach lining. Doctors recommend Bisurated Magnesia—thousands use it because it positively prevents stomach trouble or stops the worst attack in less than five minutes. Get a trial package, either powder or tablets, from your druggist, use as directed, and indigestion and stomach troubles will go like magic.—Adv.
